Poetry.

The Difficulty of Rhyming.

We parted by the gates in June,
That soft and balmy month,
Beneath the sweetly beaming moon,
And (wonth—hunth—sunth—bunth—I can't find a rhyme to month.

Years were to pass ere we should meet;
A wide and yarning gulf
Divides me from my love so sweet,
While (uit—sulf—dulf—mulf—stuck again; I can't get any rhyme to gulf. I'm in a gulf myself.)

Oh, how I dreaded in my soul
To part from my sweet nymph,
While years should their long seasons roll
Before (nymph—dymph—symph— I gues I'll have to let it go at that.)

Beneath my fortune's stern decree
My lonely spirits sunk,
For I a weary soul should be
And a (bunk—dunk—runk—sk--That will never do in the world.)

She buried her dear lovely face
Within her azure scarf,
She knew I'd take the wretchedness
As well as (parf—sarf—darf—harf-and-harf. That won't answer, either.)

Oh, I and loved her many years,
I loved her for herself;
I loved her for her tender tears,
And also for her (welf—nelf—helf—pelf—no, no; not for her pelf.)

I took between her hands my head,
How sweet her lips did pouch!
I kissed her lovingly and said—
(Heaven—mouth—mouth—; not a bit of it did I say one word).

Sorrowfully wrung her hand,
My dear the die escape,
My sorrow I could not command,
And I was but a (scape,—dape—dape—tape—ape; well, perhaps, I did feel like an ape.)

I gave to her a fond adieu,
Sweet pupil of love's school;
I told her I would e'er be true,
And always be a (dool—sool—mool—fool; since I come to think o' it, I was a fool, for she fell in love with another fellow, before I was gone a month.)

Evenings at Home No. 4.

BY HECLA HOLLYWOOD.

We find silence to be defined the absence of all sound or noise; and were I called upon for a definition of happiness, I should say perfect silence. How grand and overpowering it is! how quickly it subdues all restlessness within us! it woos and wins over to thoughts of a better life. It fills every niche in nature, and if we may be allowed the expression speaks in eloquent tongue.

The silence of the grave, start not, friend, is the inducement to die. Close your eyes for a moment and imagine yourself dead: that the life blood which flows with lightning speed through your veins has stopped; that the pulse that now throbs through your whole being is still forever; that the eyes from which glances alike loving and reproving are glassy and sightless; that the tongue, that medium through which we derive most felicity, is cold and still; that the hands clasped but a moment ago so warmly are motionless. Imagine I say, that your life work is done, your mission ended, the great object for which you were created accomplished; then would it not be a pleasure indeed to leave the multitude on the crowded thoroughfare of time, and rest quietly in the harbor of the unknown hereafter?

Happy to leave it, and make room for the many who crowd us here, and who will unconsciously take our place when we are gone. Happy to join the shades of the departed in the silent spirit land. And what is there so much to be dreaded in death? It is only going to sleep in time, to awake in eternity; a simple cessation of breath, and while the faithful loved ones watch the approach of the great change as it comes, we travel the short journey alone. It was soon over, all silent now. Ah what avails those tears or entreaties now; those heart breaking sobs. Dost thou think they will break through the portals of death? No, 'tis quiet, all quiet there. Why tread so softly or whisper low, thou canst not break the silence of the tomb? Time has ended and eternity begun with her, yet silence, solem silence prevails. The plottings the plannings of subtile humanity disturb not her repose. She is lying quietly under the green grave grass waiting the judgment day.

The breakers may beat heavily against the shores of time, and the waves of circumstances sweep wildly over the little mound of the sleeper, yet no sound breaks the silence beneath the sod. May I not say, that the anticipation of death is the pleasure of living? Yes, a happy thought that one day we may claim a better and more beautiful home than this, where hearts are sincerely responsive to our own, and where lips are strangers to guile. Dost thou not know that some die that others may live, and soon the last entombed has a silent partner in death. 'Tis written in natures own hand, on every tree and flower, "passing away." We are dropping in the grave one by one, and filling the niches made by our own hand; soon, ah! too soon for some I fear, we all in the dusk of eternity meet. As we take our place among the silent inhabitants of the tomb, the world moves on as before, the great pulse of humanity still beats, the vacancies are soon filled, and the wheels of time roll on. Ere the tear on sorrows cheek is dry, "the will" is read, and congratulations received over the inheritance, thus the love of gain and worldly goods outlive the strongest emotions of the heart.

Do not flatter thyself, my friend, that posterity will praise thy name or deeds, or that the friends that flutter around thee in prosperity will comfort thee in adversity, or cherish thy memory after death. Nay verily. He who is now the first to praise and congratulate thee on thy success, when adversity's blighting breath shall wither thy prospects, will be the first to brand thy name, and point with the finger of scorn, or give the first push down hill. Verily, the writer says:

"The evil which men do live after them,
The good is often intered with their bones."

South Mills, N. C.

The Statesville American learns that a Doctor H. who hailed from Kentucky, came to Trap Hill, Wilkes county, some time last year and practiced his profession, and while doing so won the affection of a confiding young lady, a distant relative, and married her, making believe he was a single man. This done, the past winter he made a close collection of his bills, bought about $4,000 worth of horses and mules, upon credit, which he took South and sold, failed to return to pay for the Stock, and the last heard of him he was on a train at Columbia, S. C., bound West. He has a living wife in Kentucky.

Miscellaneous.

From the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Office Superintendent Public Instruction, Raleigh, N. C., March 20th 1873.

To Boards of Examiners:

By the twenty-ninth section of the School Law, "The School Committee shall in no case give an order for teacher's wages unless the teacher produce a certificate of mental and moral qualifications from the Board of Examiners, dated within one year of the time."

It is evident that certificates heretofore given by County Examiners cannot be used by teachers. For the purpose of making this known to teachers, I respectfully recommend that the Board of Examiners for the several counties appoint a day on which they will examine teachers and give certificates.

You will please fill the blanks in the inclosed notice with such date as you may deem advisable, and cause the notices, signed by the Chairman of the Board of Examiners, to be posted through the several townships in the county.

The meeting held under this notice may be regarded as a regular meeting held for a regular meeting, provided by law for the first Thursday in January. At every regular meeting of the Board of Examiners, especially at the first, the Examiners should be all present to determine the mode of examination, and agree upon the standard of mental and moral qualifications which they will adopt in granting teacher's certificates.

The Boards of Examiners hold the key to the success of the system of public instruction. It is due alike to the tax-payer, to the teacher and to parents that tests should be applied which will rigorously and certainly exclude from the profession of teaching every incompetent and unworthy applicant. Adopt a high standard and adhere to it. Do not yield to the idea that if competent teachers cannot be found, certificates must be given to applicants who are not competent. This is a fatal idea. It is fatal to the success of public schools. The law makes it a duty to give "certificates to all applicants of sufficient mental qualifications," and to no others. If you make the standard high applicants will come up to it, sooner or later. It is better that the school funds should remain in the county treasury than be wasted by giving it to incompetent teachers.

I most respectfully recommend and advise that a teacher's certificate shall hereafter indicate with certainty:

1. That the holder is of good moral character.

2. That he is familiar with all the branches of study named in his certificate.

3. That he knows how to teach, and how to make and keep a school register, and how to govern a school.

Every applicant for a third grade certificate should stand an approved examination on the sounds of marked letters, and in spelling, reading, writing and arithmetic. All the sounds of each vowel, and the marks by which they are distinguished and words in which they occur should be given by each applicant. Fifteen, twenty or thirty words should be named, and the applicants required to spell them in writing. Any applicant who spells more than one-fourth of the words wrong, should be rejected. Every applicant who cannot read intelligently and fluently and express the sense and meaning of what he reads by proper emphasis and emotions of the voice should be rejected. Every applicant who cannot write a good copy hand and who does not know how to make and keep a school register should be rejected.

Every applicant who cannot explain the principles of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, recite the multiplication table and the tables of denominate numbers, and explain the principles of vulgar and decimal fractions, should be rejected.

Every applicant for a second grade certificate should stand an approved examination on all the branches above named, and in addition thereto on English grammar, descriptive and physical geography and map drawing, English composition, history, book-keeping and arithmetic completed.

Every applicant for a first grade certificate should stand an approved examination on all the branches named for second and third grade certificates, and in addition thereto, on drawing, algebra, geometry, surveying, natural philosophy, astronomy, chemistry, physiology and botany.

If the Board of Examiners will adopt the standard which the law requires, and give certificates only to applicants of sufficient moral and mental qualifications, their action in this respect will not only meet the approval of the public, but it will secure confidence in our public schools. When Examiners yield to the idea that certificates must be given to a sufficient number to teach the public schools—to incompetent persons, if competent persons cannot be found—they simply yield to the idea that if the school money cannot be used, it may be wasted. I beg the Examiners to adopt the idea, and stick to it, that every teacher's certificate given to an incompetent or unworthy person is a license to obtain public money under false pretences.

A question arises here in regard to giving certificates to colored teachers. Should the rigid rule here recommended yield anything in their favor? The rule should not yield to the extent of authorizing incompetent teachers for colored children. The honorable character of the work and duty of educating the colored people, is becoming better understood in this and other States. It is no more degrading to instruct colored people in schools than it is to preach to them in a church, or to instruct them to work on a farm or in a manufacturing establishment. The work of teaching is a branch of industry which should be accessible to such colored persons as will prepare themselves for it. I think they should even have the preference in teaching their own race wherever they can be found qualified. If sufficient numbers who are well qualified cannot be found, then I think the Board of Examiners should advise and encourage white teachers who are well qualified, to teach colored children. The public sentiment which would ostracise the faithful honest, competent, white teacher for teaching colored children is alike unwise, unhealthy, and detrimental to the public good. The law makes provisions for educating the colored race; the tax-payer recognizes the wisdom of that provision by voluntarily taxing his property to carry it into effect. The purpose of the law and of the voluntary tax-payer should not be thwarted by a public sentiment which has no foundation in reason or in good sense.

I would say then, if colored applicants are well qualified morally and mentally, give them certificates; otherwise, not. Let the standard be high, and equally high for the two races. Then the public money will not be wasted,

Very Respectfully,

ALEXANDER MCIVER,

Sup't. Public Instruction.

Personal Sketches of Distinguished Southern White Republicans.

No. 1.

COL. TOM LONG OF NORTH CAROLINA.

Probably one of the best known men—and at the same time one of the best hated, by the Secession democracy, and still so widely honored by the loyal Union Republicans in North Carolina, is Colonel Thomas B. Long, of Salisbury, Rowan county. Two years ago, or rather last 30th of May, a year ago the Colored people, and a few white as usual observed the 30th day of May by decorating the graves of the thousands of dead soldiers of the Union army, who lie at Salisbury

"Where there silent tents are spread,
And glory guards with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead."

On the day in question, a stranger from the North happened in Salisbury. Upon making inquiry as to the cause of the music and the vast concourses of people that were congregating opposite the Town Hall, he was informed that the loyal people would that day pay a tribute of respect to the dead Union soldiers, who were buried about a mile from the city. The stranger, who was a loyal man, and who had three sons killed in the war for the Union, joined in the procession, and with thirteen hundred colored people and six white men—he making the seventh, marched to the cemetery, where the exercises would take place. One of the speakers on the occasion was Col. Thos. E. Long. He began by saying that he had the honor to inform them, through the gracious favor of Almighty God, the determined will of the President, Gen. Grant, and by virtue of the fact that the Republican party of the Nation willed it, and mean to defend it. The people of Rowan, the loyal people, were permitted to assemble together, and pay their tribute of respect to the loyal and honored dead, who died that liberty might not perish; but have everlasting life. Col. Long's panegyric, which lasted two hours, was an effort worthy of the cause and the orator. The stranger, in listening to the words of wisdom, truth and history, asked who is the orator? To his amazement he was informed that it was Col. Tom Long, a Southern Republican. And the stranger wondered if this was really a fact—and if this be true was it possible that a former slaveholder and a member of the "first families" of the South, could or would ever be found marching in a procession with black people, and paying homage to the fallen heroes of our grand Union army on his native soil—and in the immediate presence of his kith and kindred?

If there is a man in the South who has felt the strong hand of proscription, and the unfairness of a partizan press: and if there is one man in the South who has stood it manfully, without ever flinching or yielding one single inch of his manhood or his principles, that man is Tom Long.

One day before the bombardment of Sumpter by the rebels in 1861, Col. Long, at a political meeting in Chatham county, N. C., introduced a set of resolutions, stating among other things that if South Carolina seceded, North Carolina should rise up in her manhood and put her back in the Union. In 1863 he was among the foremost to advocate a cessation of hostilities. For such language he was threatened to be shot from the stump. The lowest thing, and the meanest thing, the rebels did to Col. Long was publishing him on the "black list" in Col. Duncan K. McRae's paper. His name, however, appeared along with the Hon. R. P. Dick, now U. S. District Judge, and other distinguished gentlemen who were for stopping the war. The remarkable hair-breadth escapes of Col. Long from murder or assassination during the war, can be credited to the fact he was not known as a coward, and in those days it was said, he was acquainted with the "hair trigger."

Since 1855 Col. Long has been a leading man in the Republican party in the mountains of North Carolina. He stands second to no one as a stump speaker and a debater. In opening the Presidential campaign in Caswell county last year he told the "devils" down there, meaning those who killed Senator Stephens, that he came to speak for the Union, and he would offer no insults nor would he take any from them. Suffice it to say that he was treated with respect. During the last summer campaign, Col. Long delivered speeches in all parts of the State, especially in counties where as a general rule, Republicans find a cold reception. Boldly did he hold up the cause of Republicanism, truth and justice, and when the Presidential issue came on, if there was any one that the democracy or the "Crow eaters" detested or disliked to meet, it was Long of Rowan. Wherever he spoke the fires of liberty and Republicanism were kindled and great good was done for the party.

When General Grant shall call the roll of his deserving friends in the South, who are required to go through something for him and the party, may he forget not the name of Tom

A STITCH IN TIME.

We do not believe in the whole range of business there is a branch to which the old proverb of "a stitch in time saves nine," is more applicable than to farming. A little repair in a fence, a hedge looked after in proper time, may save a crop from being rooted up or trampled down by stock; or the little repair thus early made will prevent a greater deterioration in the farm inclosure. Said an intelligent farmer to us a short time ago: "A dollar's worth of labor to-day may save ten a month hence." The same principal is not only applicable to the farm but also to the buildings. One loose board soon begets another, and one nail driven in time may save a half day's labor if delayed. So with the crops. Early planting in properly prepared ground produces early crops; early vegetables bring good prices. It is the people who plant late who can never make any money on vegetables sent to market.

He who takes a stitch as soon as the slighest rent appears is sure to save time and money in the end; so the farmer who avails himself of the earliest good weather to prepare his land and plant his crop will save time and money. He works while others are waiting, and he will rest while others are working. His crops will be showing the green sprouts above the surface of the ground when the seed of others is just being settled in the soil. Thus he gets ahead of the weeds, and his plants are up and vigorous before the weeds get a chance to choke them; hence his labors all through the crop season are less than those of his neighbors who did not "early delve and early sow." Thus it is that the stich he took in his soil in early time saves him full nine ers the year is over. He who "early sows will early reap." Hence again he saves in being able to get his produce early to market.

But it is especially the in case of farm tools that this old maxim shines out in its greatest strength. No one thing so much detracts from the profits of a farmer as to have farm imple ments in bad order when they are wanted. A loose bolt daily becomes looser, and once broken throws a double strain on some other, hence to care for all the points, and to ever watch that no part is out of order, weak, or defective, should be the first and constant care of the farmer. An apparent defect if unattended to becomes slowly, it may be, but surely worse, until the implement is worthless. Think of these things farmers. They are worthy your earnest attention.

THE MANUFACTURING INTEREST.

Those who are keeping themselves posted as to the progress of events in this section of the State know that the subject of manufactories is more and more agitating the public mind. The time was when Agriculture was the sole interest in North Carolina. That time is passing away and forever. The people are fast learning a better political economy than to send out of the State for those products of the useful arts which are essential to the comforts of life. They are learning that the most costly mode of life, is that which depends on the product of skilled labor in distant States and countries. The cost of manufacturing, the percentage which has to be paid to jobers, wholesale dealers in turn and the exorbitant charges for transportation compel the consumer to pay high price for his articles, which is ruinous to his prosperity. For example, the people of this State sell their cotton, say, at twenty cents a pound, and buy it back at one dollar a pound. No State can afford such a system as this.

The people of this section, therefore, are beginning to see the importance of averting this drain, and they are looking towards devising the means to save these large profits to themselves.

An Albany girl writes to a New York paper, saying: "I am thirty years of age, and have never had an offer of marriage. What are the men afraid of?" Maybe they are afraid of big dry goods bills, or something of that kind.—Ex.

Ha! Some men are so constitutionally weak that they can't peruse a bill containing their name with "Dr" attached, without becoming dreadfully excited. It requires all their money for billiards, and beer, and cigars, and such necessaries of life. But that Albany girl has our sympathy. Thirty years of age and no offer of marriage! And since she has confessed to being over "sweet eighteen," the chances are not one in a thousand that she will get one.

The emminent Chemist BARON JUSTICE LEIBIG, died on the 18th, inst., at Munich, in his 71st year of age. In his death Science has lost one of its greatest expounders.

Every man has a right to interpret his own name, and to say how it ought to be pronounced. Many persons have been in a quandary in regard to how the name of the English statesman DISRAELI, should be spoken. Some pronounce it DISRAEELI, others DISRAHLI, others DIZRELLY (the accent on the first syllable, others pronounced it DISRAYLI (the accent on the second syllable). In the course of a recent speech the owner of the name had to repeat it, when quoting the letter which he wrote to the Queen, he pronounced it DISRAY-LI, the accent being on the second syllable.

The Emperor of Austria has invited all the sovereigns to be his guests during the Vienna Exhibition. The Prince of Wales and the Crown Prince of Germany will be present at the opening on the 1st of May. The Czar and the German Emperor have each announced his arrival for the end of June. As regards the Sultan, nothing has yet been settled. The great lion undoubtedly will be the Shah of Persia.

We read that at Long Ridge, Conn., Rev. W. S. Clanson, aged 97, was lately married to Mrs. Brown, aged 94.—N. Y. Mail.

We would like to know how long a person must live to attain to years of discretion. Reading the above notice we are led to believe that some people will not learn wisdom in the first century of their existence.

New Books, Periodicals, &c.,

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.—The May number is particularly attractive, whether we regard the interest and variety of its articles or the number and beauty of its illustrations. The third part of "The Roumi in Kabylia" forms the initial article. This charming record of travel is embelished with many spirited and apposite engravings, and has the merit of being devoted to a country whose features and resources are little known to the public. "Our Home in the Tyrol," by Margaret Howitt, is a delightful narrative of a Summer's residence at Bruneck, in the Pusterthal. It is full of captivating realism, diversified by quaint and attractive incident, and is appropriately illustrated. The concluding portion of "Wilmington and its Industries" is full of interesting reminiscences of an historical and social character, and furnishes some further information of special value to the manufacturer and capitalist. It is embellished with a full proportion of engravings. "Salmon Fishing in Canada," by S. C. Clarke, describes, in a graphic manner, one of the noblest and most exciting of modern sports, as it is practiced in a section peculiarly favorable to its full enjoyment. An article entitled "Philadelphia Zoological Gardens" dwells upon the advantages, in respect to both pleasure and profit, which Philadelphians are likely to derive from the establishment for the exhibition of living animals, birds, and fishes, about to be opened in Fairmount Park. A very interesting history of the foundation and operations of the London Zoological Gardens is incidentally furnished. The article is accompanied by a well-executed diagram. "Queen Victoria as a Millionaire," by Reginald Wynford, discourses in an interesting manner concerning the private fortune of her Britannic Majesty, and discloses many facts that will be entirely new to a large number of readers. "Cricket in America," by Albert A. Outerbridge, will be welcomed as a timely paper by the many admirers of a game which, after having become nationalized in England, and there won the enthusiastic sympathies of all classes of the people, promises to elicit from the active youth and manhood of this country fresh admiration and fresh devotion. Fiction is represented in the present number by the continuation of Mr. Black's attractive novel entitled "A Princess of Thule"; by a very pleasing story of French life, "Marie Fomette and her Loves," from the pen of Katherine S. Macquoid, author of "Patty"; and by some farther chapters of Mrs. Rebecca Harding Davis's serial story, "Berrytown." There are two poems, "At Odds," by Howard Glyndon, and "Overdue," by Mary B. Dodge. Concerning "Our Monthly Gossip," it is sufficient to say that it sustains its well-earned reputation for piquancy and variety.

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY.—"The Insanity of Cain" is the suggestive title of the most remarkable article in the May number of "Scribner's," and one which is destined to attract wide attention. In the way of "pictorial" papers, there is a weird little poem by Miss Maria R. Oakey, with a decoration by the author; Mr. Rhodes' article on Gavarni, the John' Leech of France, illustrated by some of the best engravings that have lately been made in America; Stanley's paper on "Four Great African Travelers," with a number of lively illustrations, and "Cuba and the Cubans," giving us, by means of pen and picture, a good idea of the situation in that unfortunate island. Miss Ledyard's designs accompanying Mrs. Walker's amusing story are very bright and the Japanese pictures in the Etchings are as funng as the letterpress descriptions. We find a fine critical paper on Walter Savage Landor, by Edmund C. Stedman; also some timely hints on "The California Journey," by Susan Coolidge; an interesting account of the Civil Service Reform; the last part of Saxe Holm's story, "The Elder's Wife;" a bright little sketch by Kate W. Hamilton, called "A Novel Spoiled;" poems and translations of Dr. Holland's story "Arthur Bonnicastle;" poems and translations by J. T. Trowbridge, George McDonald, Thamas Dunn English, and others. Dr. Holland's "Topics of the Time" are entiled "Thou Shalt Kill," "Mitigating Circumstances," "Cruelty to Men and Women," and "Civil Service Reform." The Old Cabinet contains "Reckless Moments," and a couple of sonnets in the Italian manner. In Home and Society there are pithy papers on "Our Old Books and Periodicals," "Less Glitter," "Making Presents," etc. In Culture and Progress there is a brief paper by Col. Higginson, in which he quotes the oppinions of various educaters in regard to this propesition as to Inter-Collegiate scholarship, and also an excellent account of "English Parliamentary Rules and the late Ministerial Crists."

OLD AND NEW.— In the May number of "OLD AND NEW" the two serials are continued, each with an instalment too liberal for those who do not like serials, but not for those who do. In "Scrope" (some papers have called it Scrape, perhaps with fatal foresight) Mr. Perkins gives us a new analysis of church organization, some fresh information about the subscription book business, which he calls "ferocious, if not piratical," and some careful portrait work. Mr. Burnand carries on his narrative to this hero's going to school. There are three lively editorials, one on seaside avocations, one on translating, and one on American art, with an affectionate notice of the late Mr. Kensett, the eminent landscape painter. Hale's "Revision of the Bible" is an instructive account of the undertaking. There is a very quaint and sprightly little story called "The Parish Doll," by Miss Louise Berjon. Mr. Charles L. Norton (on the staff of "The New York Christian Union," we believe) gives us a breezy paper on canoeing, called "Off the Maine Coast." Miss Emily Faithfull's account of what English loyalty really is, is interesting to us non-loyalists. Mr. J. P. Quincy has another keen argument against exempting church property from taxation. The Examiner is unusually full of careful and instructive accounts of recent publications; and the Record, Fine Art, and Music department are, as usual, fresh and good. Of the two poems, one is a pious aspiration, and the other, a musical enough invocation to the spring, by Lilian Clarke.

ECLECTIC MAGAZINE.—The Eclectic for May is an exceptionally good number of that sterling periodical. It has no less than fifteen papers, scarcely one of which is not above the average; and, in addition to these, the four Editorial deparments present the reader with the freshest and most important information in the literary field at home and abroad, in science and art, and in miscellaneous matters. The table of contents is as follows: "The Works of Thackeray; "Lord Lytton;" "Hallucinatory Manifestations;" "Too Soon," a Novel; "South-Sea Slavery, Kidnapping, and Murder;" "Balliol Scholars;" "Edward Wortley Montagu;" "The Antarctic Regions;" "German Novelists;" "A Winter Fantasy;" "Problems of Civilization;" "The Nature and Authority of Miracles;" 'Bring me Word how Tall she is;" "The Aryan Races of Peru;" "In these Hard Times;" and "Oliver Wendell Holmes;" of whom there is a fine portrait.

OUR CORRESPONDENCE

I. O. of O. F. Anniversary Ball at the Albemarle House.

Friday, April 25th, was the 54th, Anniversary of the establishment of Odd Fellowship in America, and the members of Achoree Lodge No. 14 of this city, and a goodly number of invited guests celebrated the event by a grand ball at our splendid new Hotel. The anniversary day opened with dark clouds mantling the earth, and casting gloom over happy anticipations, and when the clouds dissolved into drizzling rain, many a fair face grew cloudy, while viewing with mournful interest the beautiful new toilet, robed in which she had hoped to go forth "conquering and to conquer." But "all's well that end's well." The clouds went away with the daylight, and when night let her jeweled mantle down, clouds rolled away from hearts, and all were joyous.

At an early hour in the evening the parlors of the Albemarle House were thrown open to the guests of the evening. When we arrived at the Hotel about 9 or 10 o'clock, we were greeted with the soul inspiring music of the splendid "New Hampshire Quadrille Band," as it floated through the spacious halls of the building, and following up the music to its source, we were further greeted with a scene of beauty and joyous hilarity. The large dancing hall was filled with the guests, and over its smooth floor, little white slippered feet were patting time to the intoxicating music, while robes of white and azure blue, blended their colors with the pink and green of other fleecy robes with poetic and artistic effect.

But hush, hark, a sound breaks on the ear like a rising knell.

Did ye not hear it? Yes, it is—it is the supper bell.

Pardon me for this improvement on on the original poem. I could't help it, for I wanted a chance to get back to earth again.

Down we go into the spacious and elegant dining room, where we find the table groaning under the weight of Earth's bounties, so liberally provided by the Proprietor of the house, while the beautiful arrangement of the tables, with their wealth of spring roses, keeping company with pyramids of cakes, and savory dishes, was a happy union of the poetical and substantial. But again we hear the "sound of the viol" and now the motto is

"On with the dance, let joy be unconfined."

But the night wears away, and at the first blush of day, the merry revellers disperse, and all return to their homes to sleep, and dream; the young, to travel in dream on the wings of hope and anticipation, and gaze through the vista of coming years to view the crowning of a a hearts yearnings; the old to travel back to the days of joyous youth, and again revel in the scenes which they enjoyed before time and care furrowed the cheek, and silvered the hair, and both to awaken sad to find it only a dream, but prepared to meet the changes as they occur in life's ever changing kaleidoscope. The ball was a success and may all who participated be spared to have a happy reunion, on the 55th, anniversary a year hence.

GUEST.

A Matter to Think of.

To the Editor of the North Carolinian:

I have now been a citizen of Elizabeth City a little over three years. I like the people and believe that at least nine-tenths of the natives are not only friendly to Northern settlers, but that they earnestly desire immigration. The "Immigration Society" formed, here is an evidence of this. The speakers evinced the right feeling and the movement is one calculated to do much good.

I attended the meeting in the Court House on the night of the 21st and heard the speech of Mr. Grandy. I was surprised, nay exceedingly pained to hear his inuendoes against the Northern citizens here, using when alluding to them such figures of speech as "icebergs," "icicles," and the like. This was anything but genial and friendly. Should such a speech be followed by voting for Mr. Grandy against Mr. Shaw in Monday next, the inference Northern men must draw is obvious. Would it tend to encourage immigration? Rather would it not make the impression that all the talk about the cordial feeling toward the Northern settler is mere profession? I submit the question and here leave it.

IMMIGRANT.

Elizabeth City, April 26th, 1873.

Down South in Dixie.

The Northern man or foreigner who contemplates a remove in order to better his condition, especially as a farmer, would do well, in point of mere self-interest, to consider the claims of the Cotton States. In point of agricultural production there is one signal advantage. While corn, wheat, oats, sweet and irish potatoes, clover, all the fruits, in fact every variety of food product commonly consumed flourishing to perfection, these States possess, so far as the rest of this country is concerned, a monopoly of the productions of cotton, which is surer than any general crop to put money in a farmer's pocket. If he will raise his own meat, bread, potatoes, &c., which he can easily do, he can scarcely fail, at any price to which cotton can fall, to have surplus money at the end of the year. A bale of cotton of 500 pounds is worth $100, sometimes more, sometimes less. A bale can be raised on an acre of good land without manure. With a little help one man can make 10 bales a season, and when gathered and baled it can be kept until the price suits (that is, if you are not in debt), without danger of moth and rust. Great numbers of the old estates are offered for sale very cheap. The emigrant can come either as an individual or in a colony, jnst as suits him. I would advise to come down in the Fall after 1st of October, pick cotton for $2 or $3 per day if one is scarce of funds, look around and either rent or purchase for the coming year, and then bring on family or colony.—O. F. Bledsoe in New York Tribune.

In the little town of Halifax, Plymouth County, Mass., lived a Mr. John White. He subsisted upon alms, and kept himself secluded. Singular enough, one Saturday night, while he slept he was robbed of a large amount of gold coin which he had been hoarding, and which nobody knew was in his possession. Mr. John White undertook to cheat the public out of a living, and apparently has got the worst of it.

Enoch Arden's case seems to be a very common one, but most men deal with troubles like his in a more practical way. A sailor dwelling "at the North End," in Boston lately came home from a long voyage, and finding his wife comfortably settled with another husband, gave the entire household a good thrashing and brought up in the station house. This may not be a good way to deal with such social problems, but it is quite as good as dying in a neighboring hotel under a false name.

The great strike in South Wales, which caused 80,000 work-people to remain idle from January to the end of March, has ended in a compromise. It began with an attempt on the part of the masters to reduce wages ten per cent from New-Year's Day, and ended by the men accepting that reduction for a week, as a concession to the offended dignity of the masters. Wages were then to be computed at the rates in force before the strike, and to continue until the end of March, when there was to be a positive advance. It is now useless to discuss the wisdom of the course pursued on either side; but it is indisputable that both master and men have lost heavily, and that the follishness of lock-outs or strikes has received another striking demonstration.

UNITED STATES INTERNAL REVENUE.

Under "An Act for the Reduction of Officers and Expenses of the Internal Revenue," approved December 24th, 1872, it is required that every person or firm liable to special tax must, on or before the 30th day of April of each year, file with the Collector a sworn return on form No. 11, (Copies of which have been sent to every dealer in the District), and pay to such Officer the amount of the tax, when he will be furnished with a "Special Tax Stamp," which must be at all times conspicuously displayed in his or their place of business."

Many Dealers do not seem to be aware of the requirements of the Act referred to, and of the regulations of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, relating thereto; and, instead of complying with said requirements simply sign their name to the blanks, (form No. 11), furnished them, and return them to this office.

Every person or firm liable to a special tax is earnestly requested to carefully read the note of instructions on blank form 11, and to strictly observe the requirements of said note.

Tax-payers filing their "Returns for Special Taxes" (form 11), with the Collector or Deputy Collector, must pay the taxes and procure "Special Tax Stamps" for the following year beginning May 1st, proximo.

Municipal Election, Monday, May 5th.

Local and Personal.

☞Hon. C. L. Cobb has again returned home.

☞"Advertising has furnished me with a competence."—Amos Lawrence.

☞We call attention to the instructions and recomendations of the State Superintendent of Public Schools on our first page.

☞The township Trustees are now setting for the purpose of listing and revaluing real estate and assessing personal property.

☞That clover can be successfully raised here we have fully demonstrated. Ours is now knee high, and we are mowing it daily for our stock.

☞If any of our readers ever attempted rhyme they will possibly sympathize with the poor fellow whose last effort appears on our first page.

☞"Evenings on the Canal Bank" needs revision and improvement. The last verse does not rhyme, nor does the measure correspond with the others.

☞Several gentlemen from Schuylkill Haven Pa., paid the Tadmore section of this county a visit last week. They expressed themselves as very much pleased with it.

☞Elder Wm. H. Pitts, Pastor of the A. M. E. Zion Church at Hertford, is authorized to solicit aid to build up and advance the interest of the Church and schools at that place.

☞The Odd Fellow's anniversary Ball at the "Albemarle House" on Friday night last was a complete success. A brief description of it is given by a correspondent in another column.

☞We had a frost on Friday night. It did not do much injury here. In other parts of the State, and in South Carolina and Tennessee we see it reported that the fruit and cotton were severely damaged.

☞Those who expect to teach school in this county will remember that the Board of Examiners will meet at the Court House to-morrow for the purpose of examining Teachers. The examination will continue three days.

☞A scene on the street; time evening; two gentlemen in calling attire. First gentleman briskly; "Well! who is going to be bored to-night?" Second gentleman, as briskly; "I don't know; where are you going?"

☞It was Talleband we believe who gave it as his opinion that the principal use of language was to conceal one's meaning. We know of instances where men, in addition to this, consider the principal functions of memory to be to forget.

☞The following is a list of the Patents granted North Carolina Inventors, for the week ending April 8th,; Cotton Bale Tie,—W. C. Ramsey, Wadesboro; Dentist's Flask—C. Baily, Kingston; Horse Power—H. M. Irvin, Davidson; Cotton Chopper and Plow—W. Price, Mount Olive.

☞The Perquimans Superior Court is in session at Hertford this week. Hon. Samuel W. Watts, Judge of the sixth District, presides. We went up on Monday and while there heard his Honor's charge to the Grand Jury. It was unique and original—an off hand rambling disquisition on metaphysics, physiology, science, art, agriculture and law, with a "receipt for making the cheap whiskey of the grog shops" thrown in!!

☞Men who think they can successfully lead any number of Republicans off from the party into disorganizing or bolting movements generally find themselves mistaken. Sumner tried it, and so did Trumbull and Schurz and Greeley. Their ignominious failures ought to have satisfied some of our aspiring local politicians of the folly of the attempt. But when men get "office on the brain" they are apt to become insane. Alas! poor Grandy! "To this complexion it has come at last." As a man makes his bed, so must he lie.

☞We have, time and again, insisted upon a diversified industry. We require it not only in the general sense—mechanical trades, and manufactories and commerce— but we need it in farming. We ought to have a more diversified agriculture. Our farmers should plant more largely the provision crops, especialy small grain; they should grow clover and the grasses, raise a few sheep, and give some attention to stock growing. The eggs of a good farmer are not all in one basket, and whatever may happen in the cotton crop or the cotton market, he is sure of something to fall back on, and his family and his stock are insured against want.

☞The registration of voters for the municipal election commences on Friday. Do not neglect it.

☞Judge Pool has just returned and informs us that his business will call him from home most of the time, and hence it will be impossible for him to serve as City Commissioner. He therefore declines being a candidate. He authorizes us to say that Mr. Shaw and the regular ticket will have his full support. The name of Wm. Steger has been substituted.

☞Prof. W. C. Kerr, the Geologist of North Carolina, has traveled extensively over the State. He says that those Eastern counties constitute not only the very best grain producing section of the country, but that for the grasses cannot be excelled by the State of New York, either in quality or quantity. It is his opinion that these counties could not be surpassed in stock raising. We coincide with him.

☞For about four years, at nearly every election, C. W. Grandy Jr. has been before the people a candidate for office. We heartily, and with what little ability we possess, supported him because he was the regular nominee of the party with which we affiliated and whose organ we conduct and control. We did our duty. To-day he attempts to play the role of a disorganizer—steps outside the pale of the party organization, and accepts a bolters nomination. As he does this deliberately he need not expect his prestige or position to screen him from the consequences.

☞Mr. Grandy relies upon the consolidated Democratic vote. Without it he has no hope of success. Indeed some of his active supporters are attempting to drive Democrats into voting for him by threatening to drop him if a Democratic candidate is put in the field. We presume that the Democrats of Elizabeth City are entirely competent to manage their own affairs, and to do it independently. We only refer to the matter to show that it is not by Republican votes that Mr. Grandy hopes to be elected, but by the united vote of the Democrats.

☞The New York South alludes to a rare instance of honesty, exhibited, as it says, by a carter from our neighboring county of Perquimans, named Jesse Culpeper. It appears that a woman lost a wallet somewhere in the streets of Pourtsmouth, containing $225 in currency. When she discovered her loss she made known the fact, and all possible means of search were instituted, all of which resulted abortively. Culpepper found the wallet during the day, and while attending an auction market in the evening, heard the particulars of Mrs. B.'s loss, and went at once to restore the wallet. At the time Culpeper appeared Mr. Bartee was just on the eve of proceeding to the newspaper offices to advertise his loss and offer a reward of fifty dollars for the recovery of the money. He offered the fifty dollars to the finder, but all remuneration was stoutly declined. If the celebrated cynic philosopher, Diogenes, were living at this day and should appear in the day time, as recorded in classic story, with his lantern hunting for an honest man, we would not hesitate to direct his steps to Perquimans county.

☞The communication of "Immigrant" is worthy of thoughtful consideration. There is an opinion abroad that the old native North Carolinian feels that the State, in all its franchises, potentialities, and future possibilities, belongs to him alone; that it is for him to exercise a sort of surveillance over the character and opinions of those who would come and share his opportunities, and that he will welcome everybody who inclines to come to the State, provided they come to promote its industrial prosperity, and leave politics alone. Now we have done our utmost to disabuse the minds of the people of the North upon this subject. We have insisted that the true North Carolinian of to-day earnestly desires immigration; that he realizes that if the State is to be redeemed and keep pace with her sister States it must grow by the introduction of numbers, and of wealth, and of enterprize from without, and that he is entirely willing that all who come may come enjoying the same absolute freedom from surveillance and criticism that he has enjoyed at home. And this is the only true position—the only one that will accomplish what we all so much need. It must be remembered that in these days of mental activity, the emigrant carries with him, among his other possessions, a good stock of opinions, and it is absurd to ask him, even by inuendoe, to lay them down at he frontier of any State which he proposes to make his future residence. In this respect North Carolina cannot be permitted to enjoy an exemption granted to no other civilized community on this continent, and it is preposterous to advance a suggestion of such a character. If Elizabeth City is to grow and flourish as other cities grow and flourish, she must obey the law of their growth and cheerfully accept its conditions. The fundamental one of all is entire individual independence, and entire individual irresponsibility to others and to society, as to his conduct and opinions, so long as he is guiltless of all infractions of the law. Having said this much, we again call attention to the communication of "Immigrant."

LOCAL PORT-FOLIO.

The municipal election—on Monday next. Pitiful—the appeals made by the bolter candidate for Democratic votes. How to nourish the seeds of enterprize—patronize your home newspaper. Fight—money Sober the man who never "smiles." Slow—the advent of warm weather. Fast—some of the politicans.

MEDICAL BLUNDERS.—From the age when surgeons applied their salves to weapons instead of wounds to the present wide-awake age, the medical profession has often unwittingly taken side with Disease in the conflicts with the human system. Even yet, in spite of the teachings of centuries of experience, some physicians beleive in depleting their patients, already seriously exhausted by sickness, with powerful evacuants emetics, salivants, cautnarldal plasters, or the lancet. But providentially, public intelligence is ahead of these medical fossils, who belong of right, to the era of the Crusades! That powerful ally of nature in its warfare with the causes of sickness, Hostetters Stomach Bitters, has opened the eyes of the nation to the parmount importance of increasing the vital strength of the body when menanced by disease. They understand that when the atmospheric conditions are adverse to health, it is wise to reinforce the system with a wholesome tonic and stimulant, and thus enable it to combat and repel the depressing influence of an inclemant temperature. If the constitutionol and animal powers were always thus recruited in the presence of danger, the mortality from consumption, bronchitis, crhroic rheumatism, &c., would be much less than it now is. The cause which produce croups, colds, quinsey, diptheria and catarrh seldom affect a strong and active vital system; and of all vitalizing preperations, Hostetter's Bitters has proved the most efficient. It is not claimed that this standard tonic is a specific for lung and throat maladies, as it is for dyspepsia, liver complaint and intermittents, but it is unhestatingly asserted that it is the best known safeguard against all the atmospheric elements os disease.

Beware of Counterfeits!

JOB MOSES' SIR JAMES CLARKE'S FEMALE PILLS.
are extensively COUNTERFEITED. Dishonest Druggists endeavor to sell the counterfeits to make greater profits. The genuine have the name of Job Moses on each package. All others are worthless imitations. The GENUINE Pills are unfailing in the cure of all those painful and dangerous diseases to which the female constitution is subject. They moderate all excesses and remove all obstructions, from whatever cause.
TO MARRIED LADIES
they are particularly suited. They will in a short time bring on the monthly period with regularity; and although very powerful, contain nothing hurtful to the constitution. The circulars around each package give full directions and advice, or will be sent free to all writing for them, sealed from observation.

This preparation, long and favorably known, will thoroughly re-invigorate broken down and low-spirited horses, by strengthening and cleansing the stomach and intestines
It is a sure preventive of all diseases incident to this animal, such as LUNG FEVER, GLANDERS, YELLOW WATER, HEAVES, COUGHS, DISTEMPER, FEVERS, FOUNDERS, LOSS OF APPETITE AND VITAL ENERGY, &c. Its use improves the wind, increases the appetite, gives a smooth and glossy skin, transforms the miserable skin into a fine-looking and spirited horse.

To keepers of Cows this preparation is invaluable. It is a sure preventive against Rinderpest, Hollow Horn, etc. It has been proven by actual experiment to increase the quantity of milk and cream twenty per cent. and make the butter firm and sweet. In fattening cattle, it gives them an appetite, loosens their hide, and makes them thrive much faster.
In all diseases of Swine, such as Coughs, Cheers in the Lungs, Liver, &c., this article acts as a specific. By putting from one-half a paper to a paper in a barrel of swill the above diseases will be eradicated or entirely prevented. If given in time, a certain preventive and cure for the Hog Cholera.

How to Make Boys Hate Farming.

A gentlemam wrote to a member of the Farmer's Club requesting him, if possible, to find for him a boy who is honest, truthful, not lazy, and who will be likely to love farming. He wanted a boy to pick up stones, churn, milk cows, turn grindstone, &c., and one also that will not hate farming and run away every chance he gets. [Great laughter.] The Chairman handed it over to Sereno Edwards Todd to answer, who replied as follows: If a boy is ever justified in runing away most assuredly he would be when he is directed to go alone to perform a job that every faithful laborer hates. If you wish to keep a boy on the farm never set him alone, when the birds are singing, the squirrels are chattering and the violets are unfolding their charming petals, at picking stones in a large field. [Applause.] The truth is, those little arms and soft muscles are no more suitable for handling stones than the muscles of a young colt are to drawing a subsoil plow. If you wish to make a boy love the farm better than any other employment, don't keep him turning a big grindstone at noon when all the men but the one who is grinding are lying in the shade; and don't bear on with all your might, so hard as to stick him, and then ridicule him tauntingly, telling he must eat more pudding and milk before he can turn a grindstone like a man. [Renewed applause.] Perchance that boy weighs only fifty pounds. You weigh 150, and the grindstone 150. Now, then, suppose we let you turn a huge stone of 450 pounds while a giant of 450 pounds weight bears on, which is a fair proportion between yourself and the boy. Before the giant has applied half his weight if he don't see you balk square from the mark, and crack, if you don't break the third commandment and assume a profane and pugnacious attitude, then write me as a false prognosticator. [Cheers and loud laughter.] Unless you want to make a good boy hate farming and every employment connected with it, don't manage in such an underhand manner that he will have to milk the cow which every one dislikes to milk because she milks so hard. [A voice—"That's what he knows about milking."] When the boy comes in at night so tired that he would rather lie down on the hard side of a maple plank than to eat his supper, so as to do that churning, when all the men and older boys are allowed to read the newspapers or to smoke unmolested. If you wish to induce a boy to think that Indian corn and potatoes are profitble crops, don't give him an old rusty hoe that no sensible man would use and then tell him if he will cut in smart when hoeing that you will help him keep his row up even with the rest. (Renewed cheers.) If you do not want to make a boy hate the country, when a task is assigned to him, don't pile on so much as to compel him to summon all his energies for three-fourths of the day to complete it, and then, as soon as the job is done, tell him he will have to go to mill or the cook can make no bread for the next day. If you don't want to make a boy hate all the operations of a farm, don't tell him while all the men are taking their "nooning" in harvest time to water the horses and cows, and to hurry up so as to be ready to go with the men when they are ready to return to the field. Don't encourage a boy to rear a nice calf or colt and tell him the animal shall be his when grown up, and then sell the beast for a good price, pocket the money, and tell the boy the price received don't pay for the hay, oats and grass consumed. If you want to make an energetic and successful farmer of a boy, don't encourage him to rise before daylight so as to rake the wheat stubbles while the dew is on, telling him he shall have half the cleanings, and then sell his part of the grain with the crop, and tell him, when he inquires about his share of the money, that the little sum received will not half pay his board next winter. (Laughter and cheering, D. D. Braun interrupting. "I guess Todd was a boy once.") Don't badger a good boy to the verge of desperation with the mischievous and obnoxious "go boys" system of management. If you want to make him like farming operations, don't fret every ambitious desire out of the young aspirant with the repulsive and incessant ding dong of

Jim do this and Jim do that,
When all Jim gets is an old straw hat.

There is no precept and no reasoning that will induce boys to stick to the farm like the cheering words, "Come, come boys," always accompanied by an irreproachable example in leading the way. Strange as it may seem to some, boys are human. (Renewed applause.) —Exchange.

North Carolina is decidedly and emphatically an agricultural State, as much so as any State in the Union. Throughout our whole country, the employment of the planter is a favorite one, and is deservedly held in high estimation. Health and longevity; peace, plenty, and contentment; an ardent patriotism, a manly independence, and generous hospitality, are associated in the mind of an American citizen, with green fields and waving harvests—The poet has sung the pleasures of rural life, and has drawn from its scenes, his most beautiful pictures, and brightest imagery—and the philosopher has enjoyed with heartfelt satisfaction its calm and tranquil delights.

The greatest men of America have not deemed the pursuits of agriculture beneath them, and the chief magistrates of the republic have retired from their exalted stations, to spend the evening of life among rural scenes and the soft charms of cultivated nature. The pursuits of the husbandman are in a high degree honorable and useful, and eminently favorable to human virtue and happiness.

The following is said to be an excellent remedy for that troublesome complaint, felon: As soon as discovered take some spirits of turpentine in a cup, dip the finger in it and then hold the hand near a hot fire till dry; then dip it in again and repeat for fifteen minutes, or till the pain ceases. The next day, with a sharp knife, pare off the thick skin and you will find something like a honeycomb filled gith clear water; open the cells and the felon is gone. If this felon is too advanced for turpentine, oil of origanum, treated in the same way, will cure. If too far advanced for either to cure, the felon will be benefited, or it will be less painful Never draw it.

WHITEWISH.—After the lime has been slackened in hot water, sift into it from a corn meal sive, to half a pail of whitewash a quart, or even more, of wood ashes. The finished work will be much whiter for this addition, and every way better.

CARE OF THE SICK ROOM.—Where the patient cannot be moved and cannot endure either broom or carpet sweeper, go carefully over the carpet with a damp cloth to remove dust.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalists and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness it will compare favorably with any where: and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the sociability of the people, in great fert lity, and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built to Weldon, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing, farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A Steam Saw and Grist Mill in the town of Nixonton 8 miles from E. City. This Mill has a fine wharf and store attached on deep navigable water, the engine is 40 horse power, and all in good order. Adjoining the mill property is 40 acres of fine land on the River, with three houses, all for $1200. Near the same is a good two story dwelling and 13 acres of land for $2.000, and a good one story dwelling, with one acre of land for $300.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotauk county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church, school house and post office. A fine farm and fishery in same county. The farm contains 400 acres of the finest land, lies immediately on Albemarle Sound where the water is 12 miles wide, and 18 to 20 feet deep, has got buildings, and fine neighborhood. The fishery is on the farm and goes with it. It has a new seine 2,500 yards long, and all the necessary boats, buildings, &c., (which cost over $15,000 two years ago.) The fishery alone, of a good season, will make from 5 to $10,000 profit to the owner. This property is offered at forced sale for the low price of $20,000, $7,000 cash, balance on easy times.

A store at South Mills, in Camden county, 20 miles from E. City, and 20 miles from Norfolk, lying on the canal where steamers pass daily. A fine chance for merchandize. Goods to the amt. of $50,000 per annum can be sold here, and at large profits. A splended stand for a country retail store. Price $2,500—one third cash, balance in one and two years.

A valuable tract of land in Camden county, at South Mills, on the Dismal Swamp Canal, lying on the canal for two miles, containing over 900 acres of land—two-thirds cleared, and in a fine state of cultivation, with good buildings, &c.; balance in valuable timber. Price $12,000, one-third cash, balance in one and two years, interest from January, 1871. This is a valuable farm for corn, wheat, and vegetables, and being midway between Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and located where steamers pass by the door daily, is a desirable and cheap property.

A fine farm of 600 acres within six miles of E. City, one mile from navigable water, and the best cotton farm in the State. It is also well adapted to raising corn and wheat. This farm has a splended two-story dwelling upon it, large barn, 40 by 60 feet, a large number of outhouses, by splended trees and shrubbery, is in a strong Union neighborhood, and altogether the most desirable place in the county. A little over one-half of this land is cleared, and the balance is covered with the finest yellow pine, poplar, ash and other timber. The land is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, peas, &c., lies high and dry, and is susceptible of the highest improvement. Fronting and looking over, as it does, two large sheets of navigable water, where steamers and sailing vessels are constantly passing, carrying freight and passengers to all parts of the country, its location and surroundings, are of the most fascinating and desirable character. There is a fishery on it ready for working a seine 2,500 yards long, and which commands a portion of both streams of water, and can be made immensely profitable. The price charged is low, and the purchase a very desirable one. The buildings consist of a good two-story dwelling and out-houses.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of land, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A Farm of 200 acres within one mile of Elizabeth City, with good two story dwelling, large barn and stables, and all necessary outhouses, orchard of fine fruit trees, and a large number of ornamental trees and shrubbery around dwelling. A NEW ERA IN JOURNALISM.

THE GREAT ACHIEVEMENT OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC
All the News and Full of Pictures.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC is the title of a newspaper, published in New York, which is achieving the most remarkable journalistic success ever chronicled. It is an eight-page evening paper (three editions daily), elegantly printed, and conducted by the ablest editorial talent attainable.

As a newspaper THE DAILY GRAPHIC stands in the first rank, and contains regularly

THE VERY LATEST AND FULLEST NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

Its great feature consists in the fact that it is not only a newspaper, but an illustrated newspaper as well. Four of its pages are filled with choice reading matter—telegrams, editorials, general and local news, items, gossip, and correspondence on the freshest and most interesting topics. The remaining four pages consist of executed in the most faultless and artistics style, and portraying accurately and fully all leading events within twenty-four hours after their occurrence. Those who have made journalism a study, and fully appreciate the great enterprise manifested in the collection and publication of news by the aid of the telegraph, steam presses, and the development of journalistic talent, have been fond of advancing the theory that the next advance in that field would result in a newspaper furnishing in its regular issues pictures of all current prominent events. That theory is a theory no longer; the newspaper of the future is the newspaper of to-day, and that paper is THE DAILY GRAPHIC. The processes which render this marvellous achievement an existing fact are the result of the most carefull study and an endless variety of experiments, gradually perfected during the past twelve years. They depend upon improvements in lithographic and the application of the photographic camera. By their aid a picture is engraved and made ready to print in from twenty minutes to two hours. Costly and elaborate plates, works of art, scenes of interest, are reproduced and pictured forth with equal facility and the most scrupulous fidelity. Illustrations of leading events are engraved and prepared for the press even before the accompanying written narrative or description leaves the hands of the compositor.

For the proper practical working of so great an enterprise, THE GRAPHIC COMPANY was formed, with

CAPITAL OF $500,000 IN GOLD, months and months before the first issue of THE DAILY GRAPHIC, the most extensive preperations were made, and to-day THE GRAPHIC COMPANY has

The Largest and most Complete Newspaper Establishment in the United States.

In the great work of illustrating the events of the day an extensive corps of the best known and most accomplished artists are constantly engaged.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC aims to be in its strictest sense a newspaper. Striving always to be just and truthful, it discusses all questions independently and impartially. It is not the organ of any party, sect, or creed. It is always high-toned, and contains nothing to offend any taste. Its contents give it an immense advantage over the "old fashioned" papers. The annual subscriber gets a volume of twenty-for hundred pages, constituting a valuable record of events and a graphic panorama of our time and progress. It possesses not merely a local interest, but is a paper for every reader of the language. It is, emphatically,
